

pain

Across

- 4. interpretation of pain is diminished in _____ due to lack of myelin sheath
- 6. a pain reducing modality based on the gate control pain theory
- 7. medication given to patients with malignant hyperthermia
- 9. first stage response to a stressor
- 10. type of pain explained by the neuromatrix theory

- 11. a type of hyperthermia that is a hypermetabolic disorder
- 13. low-intensity stimuli causing pain
- 14. this theory claims pressure can be perceived as pain
- 15. not available to tissue when ischemia occurs
- 16. a common over the counter medication for acute and chronic pain relief
- 17. pain that is described as an ache, burning, dull, throbbing

- 18. responsible for pain perception

Down

- 1. clinical feature of malignant hyperthermia
- 2. a common anesthetic that can induce malignant hyperthermia
- 3. pain that is described as sharp, pricking, electric
- 5. a modern anticonvulsant used in the treatment of chronic pain
- 8. an addictive pain medication

- 12. carry noxious stimuli that can damage tissue